

Taylor Anne Williams

Taylor Anne Williams is the product of an educational family that has a combined teaching experience of over fifty years. The most profound aspect of their familial philosophy is the urgency of making a positive impact on the world.

Ms. Williams discovered her love of Journalism while attending college at The Florida State University in Tallahassee, Florida. Initially, she served as a staff writer and eventually became an editor for the Arts and Entertainment section of the independent FSView.

Ms. Williams earned a Bachelor of Science in Communication from Florida State University, with a minor in Religion. In addition, she received a minor in Journalism from Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University. During this time, she also freelanced for the Forum Publishing Group and interned with the Broward Education Communication Network (BECON). After graduation, Ms. Williams moved back to Ft. Lauderdale to work with students at the Nova Southeastern University newspaper. During this time, she helped the Nova Knight's staff to convert their monthly newspaper into a weekly edition. She also spearheaded celebrity coverage, including interviews with Olympic Gold Medalist Michael Phelps and world renowned drummer Max Weinberg.

Ms. Williams came to Somerset Academy in the Summer of 2005, and has enjoyed the experience since. Certified in both Journalism 6-12 and English 5-9, Ms. Williams enjoys sharing her love of words and inspiring students to do their best in whatever they may tackle in life. She serves as the advisor for the Somerset Gazette, Visions yearbook and the Journalism club. She also teaches Sunday school and serves as a lay leader at Plantation United Methodist Church. Today, Ms. Williams continues to strive for a positive community impact in both professional and personal aspects of her life.